Study Title: Comprehensive Opioid, Stimulant, and Substance Abuse Program (COSSAP) - New

Mexico Law Enforcement Assisted Diversion

Project Team: Deb Heath, Jaymes Fairfax-Columbo

Project Partners: Behavioral Health Services Division; six community Law Enforcement Assisted Diversion programs (Bernalillo County; Lea County; San Juan County; San Miguel County; Santa Fe

County; Taos County)

Funding Agency: Bureau of Justice Assistance

Project Synopsis: This project is focused on implementing and expanding Law Enforcement Assisted Diversion programs throughout New Mexico (LEAD). As its name suggests, LEAD is a diversionary program in which law enforcement officers—in lieu of arrest—refer individuals with behavioral health problems to case management services. It is grounded in principles of harm reduction, with the underlying rationale being a focus on reducing negative consequences of substance use as opposed to requiring abstinence. One county (Bernalillo County) is expanding its existing LEAD programs, whereas five sites are working to implement novel LEAD programs.

Study Title: Emergency COVID Behavioral Health*

Project Team: Deborah Altschul, Kelsey Sala-Hamrick, Tyler Kincaid, Amanda Hasselle*

Project Partners: New Mexico Behavioral Health Services Division (BHSD); HSC

Funding Agency: Substance Abuse Mental Health Services Administration(SAMSHA)

Project Synopsis: New Mexico Behavioral Health Services Division Emergency Response to COVID-19 is a statewide initiative to ensure access to evidence based screening, assessment and behavioral health treatment during the COVID-19 pandemic. Strategies include implementation of uniform screening and assessment practices and dissemination of Evidence Based Practices including Cognitive Behavioral Therapy, Community Reinforcement Approach, Dialectic Behavioral Therapy, and Medication Assisted Treatment. The populations of focus is individuals with SMI, SED, SUD, and those with co-occurring SMI/SED and SUD. An additional priority population is individuals with mental health disorders less severe than SMI, including healthcare professionals and others impacted by COVID-19 throughout NM. Project Goals are to (1) train and provide ongoing coaching to providers on evidence based practices that can be delivered via telehealth; (2) rapidly implement these practices; (3) enhance our statewide crisis and access line (NMCAL) to screen, assess and serve the health care workforce and others impacted by COVID-19; (4) implement peer recovery supports; and (5) support the network of crisis response currently being developed, including mobile outreach, crisis triage centers, and statewide access to telepsychiatry, with services offered via telehealth and face-to-face.

Project Team: Deborah Altschul, Brandi Fink, Bernice Chavez, Ryan Sanchez, Maria Yellow Horse Brave Heart, Steve Verney, Nina Wallerstein

Project Partners: Pueblo of San Felipe, UNM TREE Center, UNM Psychology

Funding Agency: National Institutes of Health (NIMHD)

Project Synopsis: Integrating Intergenerational Cultural Knowledge Exchange with Zero Suicide is an innovative study in a Southwestern tribal nation that incorporates Zero Suicide into Indian Health Services (IHS) primary care settings. The goal of this study is to determine the effectiveness of Zero Suicide plus a cultural component (ZS+) (experimental group) compared to Zero Suicide (ZS) alone (control group) on suicidal ideation, behaviors, and resiliency in a randomized control trial of 138 AI youth ages 12-24 at two tribal health clinics. The long-term goal of this study is to determine which is more effective at reducing suicidal ideation and behaviors and increasing resiliency, ZS+ or ZS alone.

Study Title: San Felipe Pueblo Garrett Lee Smith Suicide Prevention Grant (KEYWAH III)

Project Team: Deborah Altschu, Ryan Sanchez, Deidre Begay, Leah Bogusch

Project Partners: Pueblo of San Felipe

Funding Agency: SAMHSA

Project Synopsis: Kathishya Embraces Youth, Wellness, and Hope (KEYWAH) seeks to expand suicide prevention and early intervention strategies in schools, tribal courts, and the tribal behavioral health program, to: (1) increase the number of youth-serving organizations able to identify and work with youth at risk of suicide; (2) increase the capacity of clinical service providers to assess, manage, and treat youth at risk of suicide; (3) improve the continuity of care and follow-up of youth identified as at risk for suicide, including those who have been discharged from emergency department and inpatient psychiatric units; and (4) develop infrastructure to sustain & expand programming beyond grant funding. These goals will be accomplished through school-wide prevention programming, universal screening of all students accessing primary care at the School Based Health Center, referral to clinical services for those at risk of suicide, training of gatekeepers and other child-serving providers on Mental Health First Aid, training primary care providers on Zero Suicide, training clinicians on CBT-SP, and ongoing use of data for continuous quality improvement. The target population is youth 10-24 years old at risk for suicide.

Study Title: Social Justice Advocacy and Diversity Training in Behavioral Health

Project Team: Jennifer Crawford, Lindsay Smart, Karen Smith

Project Partners: N/A

Funding Agency: Association of Psychology Postdoctoral and Internship Centers (APPIC)

Project Synopsis: Providing Health Service Psychology (HSP) Interns and Fellows with effective social justice advocacy training is critical for bridging the gap between diversity-related training competencies and active engagement in fighting systemic racism, inequality and disparities as an independent HSP. The project helps HSP trainees and their programs assess current social justice related strengths and needs in order to identify ways to increase meaningful advocacy training. The current project is piloting and scaling-up an online self-assessment and reflective evaluation process for trainees, utilizing a multi-phase mixed methods approach to adapting and refining the self-assessment before broader dissemination.

Study Title: Transformation Transfer Initiative - Crisis Triage Centers Learning Collaborative

Project Team: Jaymes Fairfax-Columbo, Annette Crisanti, Kimberly McManus

Project Partners: Behavioral Health Services Division; New Mexico Solutions; Hidalgo Medical Services; RI International, Bernalillo County Behavior Health Services Department; Office of Peer Recovery and Engagement

Funding Agency: National Association of State Mental Health Program Directors/Substance Abuse and Mental Health Services Administration

Project Synopsis: This project seeks to support implementation and expansion of Crisis Triage Centers (CTCS) in the State of New Mexico. Currently, three agencies have a CTC actively running (New Mexico Solutions, Bernalillo County, and Dona Ana County) and one agency (Hidalgo Medical Services) is in the process of revamping a CTC it ran in the past. The Learning Collaborative allows stakeholders at the various CTCs to share knowledge with each other, as well to cultivate support from other crisis stakeholders in the state (e.g., the Office of Peer Recovery and Engagement; local law enforcement agencies; crisis access lines). The project funds 12 monthly, two hour Learning Collaborative meetings. As a result of these meetings, CBHTR will provide an implementation strategy/guide to BHSD, as well as recommend a uniform data set that CTCs should collect and report on to gauge effectiveness of CTCs in the state, as well as target areas for resource allocation.

Study Title:  $\underline{I}$ rauma informed to build  $\underline{R}$ esilient,  $\underline{I}$ ndigenous,  $\underline{B}$ alanced communities  $\underline{E}$ nhanced with  $\underline{S}$ trength (TRIBES)

Project Team: Maria Yellow Horse Brave Heart, Deidre Begay, Teresa Gomez, Deborah Altschul, Brian Isakson, Molly Faulkner, Laura Rombach, Jeremiah Simmons

Project Partners: N/A

Funding Agency: Substance Abuse Mental Health Services Administration (SAMHSA)

Project Synopsis: The Trauma informed to build Resilient, Indigenous, Balanced communities Enhanced with Strength (TRIBES) initiative seeks to increase Historical Trauma informed care expertise through the widespread of training of a HT informed parenting curriculum and suicide prevention and response toolkit to provide accessible and culturally informed interventions to American Indian and Alaska Native (AI/AN) populations. TRIBES will build on existing expertise and infrastructure from CBH two rounds of National Child Traumatic Stress Network category III awardee experience to increase the workforce capacity in AI/AN communities and youth serving agencies by providing education, tools and implementation guides and consultation that are developed with AI/AN culture, beliefs and values prioritized. TRIBES will offer training on parenting curriculum to four regions in the United States, training up to 80 professionals from diverse tribal cultures with an emphasis on training individuals who work with AI/AN populations to use a curriculum that is HT informed, culturally developed and culturally adaptable.

The dissemination of the awareness about HT will greatly increase the capacity of tribes, tribal-serving agencies and their partners to respond to trauma in a culturally appropriate and effective manner. TRIBES will fill a much needed gap to improve services for AI/AN individuals, families and communities. The goals of TRIBES are to first: Collaborate with NCTSN sites, tribal, state, and federal organizations to increase awareness and understanding of impact of HT on parenting practices, child abuse and neglect, and suicide. Second: Increase capacity of tribes and their partners to prevent and respond to suicide and related trauma in a culturally appropriate manner. Third: Development and implementation of an Intergenerational Trauma Focused Parenting Curriculum for AI/AN Families. Fourth: Expand the workforce capacity to provide culturally sensitive trauma-focused interventions for AI/AN families. Finally: Implement a project evaluation including process and outcomes evaluation. It is anticipated that up to 20 tribal workers will participate in the pilot for the parenting curriculum and 40 individuals, will benefit from participation in the Intergenerational Trauma Collaborative Group(ITCG) and TRIBES Youth and Family Advisory Group (TYFAG), In years 2-5 an additional 20-30 tribal workers will benefit from being trained in the parenting curriculum, and 40? individuals will benefit from participation in the ITCG and TYFAG. This results in 100-120 tribal workers from across the United States and estimated 40-200 youth, families and stakeholders served throughout the life of the grant.
